

2017-095: Evaluating long term benefits of genomic selection programs in beef cattle breeding programs

Researcher: Bart Lardner

Funding: $24,000

This project has been developed from a project that showed that not all bulls pull their weight in a herd. This study furthers that research, to evaluate whether bulls persistently fail to perform, and whether breeding performance can be determined based on genetics.